Klansmen Held Following Riot In Massachusetts

Sixteen Charged With Intent to Murder After Attack From Ambush—Victim Probably Fatally Wounded—Five Others Injured.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Framingham, Mass., Aug. 11.—As the aftermath of serious disorders in Sudbury when, following a Ku Klux Klan meeting, Alonzo Foley of Saxtonville was probably fatally wounded and five others were injured when shot down from ambush, sixteen alleged members of the Klan were held in $200 each for a hearing next week when arraigned in district court today before Judge Edward B. Blodgett. The sixteen men, among the eighty arrested were charged with intent to murder Foley. Charges against four alleged anti-Klansmen were dropped when Lieutenant Charles T. Beaupre of the state constabulary informed the court that the government had no grounds on which to prosecute them. The men held are: Calvin Whitmer, Maynard; Ralph E. Ambrose, Warren; M. Parker, James R. Knowles and Everett Brown, all of Needham; Perley E. Libbey, owner of the farm where the riots occurred; Robert E. Diamond of North Easton; Andrew Terro of Maynard; Robert Atkinson of Sudbury; Ralph M. Stevenson, James Burkhardt, Charles C. Rice and Ralph M. Chamberlain, all of Needham.

Prisoners Heavily Guarded.
As sudden crowds glowered the prisoners were marched in pairs to the court house from the local police station, a distance of 100 yards. State and local police, heavily armed, guarded them. Armed guards also were strewn throughout the court room which was jammed with curious.

A court clash almost developed between State Police Lieutenant Beaupre and Attorney Kjelstrom when the state officer informed the court that the government had no evidence against the four alleged anti-Klansmen who were also charged with assault with intent to kill. "I have noticed that no charges are ever placed against anti-Klansmen in a local court," said Kjelstrom. "I have noticed that no charges are ever placed against anti-Klansmen in a local court, seems difficult."

Mr. Beaupre checked himself and said nothing.

Buckshot Charge in Temple.
Relatives and friends of the wounded besieged the Framingham hospital where Foley and Thomas Shiner, also of Saxtonville, are confined. Foley, shot through the left temple with buckshot, is in a serious condition. His name is on the target list.

William Bradley and Edmund Purcell of Framingham and Francis Maguire of Saxtonville were able to go home with their wounds dressed. Foley and four companions were said to have been standing in the road near the Klan meeting place. Shots were fired and the five dropped. Foley's companions and their injuries: William Bradley, 25, of Framingham, bullet wound in thigh; Thomas Shiner, 23, of Saxtonville, gun shot wound in right cheek; Frank McGuire, 30, of Saxtonville, gun shot wounds in cheek and back; Edmund Purcell, 21, of left ear shot away. The Klan meeting, held on the Libby farm in South Sudbury, was one of the largest ever held in this vicinity and drew a large crowd of curious spectators.

Disorders Followed Meeting.

The highways in all directions were clogged with automobiles. Attacks on Klansmen and counter attacks by the Klansmen on the anti-Klansmen followed the breaking up of the meetings. One large party of Klansmen broke through an attacking crowd and made their way to the Libby house. A crowd of anti-Klansmen surrounded the house and aid was asked of the state constabulary.

Meanwhile, a dozen smaller disorders were taking place and the shooting of the five young men from ambush was going on.

District Attorney Arthur R. Reading of Middlesex county today ordered a searching probe of the disorders and the shooting. Assistant District Attorney Warren Bishop was at the scene today with Captain George Parker of the state police.

Volley Fired From Hen Coop.
More than 200 men of all ages were assembled about the Klan field when without warning a volley issued from near a hen coop on a road in the rear of the Libby farm. As the five young men fell to earth panic ensued. Automobiles began to scurry away in all directions. There were many collisions in the confusion.

Prompt arrival at the Libby farm of twenty-five members of the state constabulary from the barracks at Framingham, Holden, Concord and North Reading prevented further trouble.

The State Troopers arrested eighty men and seized firearms, brick-bats, and other missiles.

Wanted of Deputies.
Chief of Police, Seneca Hall of Sudbury told reporters that anti-Klansmen had been stoning houses on the old Connecticut road. He had been warned, he said, that if there was further stone throwing there would be reprisals. Chief Hall was on the scene at the time the volley was fired. Foley and his wounded companions were brought to the office of Dr. C. J. Goff in Saxtonville, a mile away. Hundreds of automobiles followed the regiment.

Politics Stay in Dry Enforcement

Senators Will Have Something to Say About Appointment of Federal Administrators at $7,500 a Year—Big Business Executive Type Not Anxious for Jobs.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 11.—Prohibition enforcement's suit for an absolute divorce from politics has been thrown out of court. This was the interpretation placed today on the brief announcement from the treasury that no new prohibition supervisors will be appointed who are objectionable to the senators in whose states they are to operate. Putting it the other way around, senatorial voices will continue to speak powerfully in the appointment of dry directors, just as they always have in the past.

This is chalked up failure number 1 in the ambitious plans to reorganize Federal enforcement of the Volstead law.

Under reorganization plans of General Lincoln C. Andrews, the country was to be divided into 22 enforcement districts, laid out according to judicial districts. They were to be provided over by $7,500 a year men, chosen for executive ability and without reference to political considerations of any sort.

This announcement created a storm of tornado proportions, which has been raging under the surface for several weeks. Jobs that pay $7,500 a year do not grow on every senatorial patronage tree, and the fact they were to be pinched independently of senatorial preference did not sit well.

The net result of the protests has been that General Andrews has been compelled to abandon that part of his reorganization scheme. The new dry czar is also experiencing difficulty in still another phase of his house cleaning campaign. He is having difficulty getting men of the "big business executive" type to become prohibition directors for $7,500 a year. Executives of the type General Andrews desires apparently do not crave the work of trying to enforce the Volstead law.

General Andrews is still hopeful that he will have his enforcement machine ready to operate by September 1, but it is admittedly a forlorn hope. Predictions were made today that it will be nearer October 1.

AMERICAN CAPITAL TO HELP STABILIZE LIRA

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Rome, Aug. 11.—Negotiations to stabilize the lira are being conducted between Finance Minister Volpi and agents of J. P. Morgan, Blair and Company and the National City Bank, New York, according to a report carried by the semi-official agency Roma today.

The negotiations are understood to include plans for a large participation by American capital in the development of the electrical industry in Italy as well as public works.

WEATHER INTERFERES WITH MAC MILLAN EXPEDITION

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 11.—Extremely bad weather at Etah, the primary base of the MacMillan Arctic expedition, continues to prevent the naval aviators from seeking and locating an advanced base in Ellsmore Land. Lt. Commander Byrd reported to the navy department today by radio.

cars with the wounded men. Dr. Carr called the Rev. Father McCauley. As the last rites were being administered to Foley, the crowd outside the house knelt on the lawn in prayer. Later the wounded men were hurried to the Framingham hospital.

Meanwhile, milling crowds and auto-clogged roads were in evidence about the Libby place. Chief of Police William Holbrook of Framingham rushed to the scene. Mounting a fence, he called to the crowd to disperse. In a short time the state constabulary arrived over the road on motorcycles. Lieutenant Charles T. Beaupre of the Framingham state constabulary ordered the arrest of every man in sight.

As fast as arrests were made those taken in custody were placed aboard motor trucks and rushed to the Framingham police station.

State police asserted that in an automobile carrying the registration of the son of Chief of Police Hall was found a shot gun.

Threatened Vengeance on Assassins.
News of the shooting of Foley and his four companions quickly spread to Foley's home town, Saxtonville. A crowd of several hundred of Foley's friends met in conference and decided to wreak vengeance on his assassins. They started for Framingham police headquarters.

The crowd from Saxtonville were warned away, however, by squads of state and Framingham police who were deployed about the streets ordering all to keep away from the vicinity of the police station.

Inside police headquarters eighty prisoners, police officers and newspaper reporters were jammed together. The prisoners were locked behind heavy doors on the second floor of the building.

Questioning of the prisoners soon began.

Many were found not to be members of the Klan.

Of the first nineteen quizzed, five were released and 14 held for arraignment.

Ellenville Hotel Is Padlocked

Central Hotel at Ellenville is Fifth Place in County to be Closed by Temporary Injunction by District Attorney Traver.

Friday Sheriff Wells served a summons and complaint and a temporary injunction on the proprietor of the Central Hotel, 139 Canal street, Ellenville. This is the fifth padlock case to be brought in the county by District Attorney Traver in a campaign to clear up the alleged violators of the Volstead law. The summons and complaint filed by District Attorney Traver in a civil action under authority invested in district attorneys under the federal prohibition law, will be tried later in court. The temporary injunction granted by Supreme Court Justice G. D. B. Hasbrouck closes the place until the action is finally determined in court.

According to the affidavits filed with the papers, the alleged proprietor, Max Cohen, and John Selken, agent, sold beer and whiskey of more than the prescribed alcohol content on several occasions when the place was visited by detectives. Both are named defendants in the action brought under the name of the United States of America, plaintiffs.

Affidavits filed state that on several occasions beer and whiskey were purchased from both defendants and from Mrs. Cohen, who was behind the bar on at least one visit to the place.

The Central Hotel is located on one of the main business streets in the village of Ellenville.

Youth Killed in Gun Battle

Deputy Sheriff, Awakened by Burglar Alarm, Opens Fire on Two Youths, Killing One—Attacked by Other With Blackjack.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Amsterdam, N. Y., Aug. 11.—A 19 year old boy was instantly killed and another youth badly wounded early today in a gun battle with a deputy sheriff on the Fort Johnson-Amsterdam road, three miles from here.

The dead youth is Charles Nichols of Gloversville, according to the authorities. The wounded boy is Charles Broderick, 16, of Johnstown. Deputy Sheriff Nelson Pierce, of Fort Johnson, who claims he caught the two in the act of robbing his "hot dog" stand, was wounded in the elbow by a bullet alleged to have been fired by Nichols.

Pierce was awakened by a burglar alarm. With drawn revolver he opened the door of the garage. One of the youths, he says, opened fire and the other struck him on the head with a blackjack. Half dazed, Pierce returned the fire. The gun battle lasted until the three fell to the floor. As soon as the firing started Mrs. Pierce called the police from this city.

When the police the coroner reached the scene, Nichols was dead, shot through the heart. The authorities hoped to get a statement from Broderick at the hospital but physicians said his condition was too serious to permit any one to talk to him.

Sheldon Talks at Freeman Office

Arthur Frederick Sheldon, who is conducting his Forum of Fundamentals in Kingston under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, addressed the Freeman force this morning and for 35 minutes the only sound heard in the building was Mr. Sheldon's voice. At the close of the address, which was greatly appreciated, everybody set out to give a Q-Q-M demonstration in that the publication of The Freeman this afternoon proves scores 100 per cent. Those who have heard Mr. Sheldon know what Q-Q-M means. Others, who may think it is the call of a radio station, will know all about it when they hear Mr. Sheldon.

Court Dissolves Cinderella's Tie To Millionaire

Adoption Declared Null and Void—Girl Later Creates Excitement at Broadway Hotel—Early in Day, She Sought Convent.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Aug. 11.—The adoption of pretty, 21 year old Mary Louise Spas, the seven day "Cinderella" was today declared "null and void" by court order.

This action was taken at the request of Edward W. Browning, millionaire real estate operator, who adopted Mary Louise and then repudiated her after he learned she was 21 and not 16 as she stated.

The ground for invalidating the adoption was Mary Louise's age. She admitted to surrogate Daniel Noble today that she is 21.

Browning, Mary Louise and the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Spas, all agreed that the adoption should be voided.

The 50 year old millionaire was relieved of "all further responsibilities or duties" toward Mary Louise. The formal agreement was signed by all concerned and countersigned by the judge.

Millionaire and Cinderella Happy.

Browning was all smiles and seemingly greatly relieved when the papers were signed. He chatted pleasantly with Mary Louise before and after the agreement was signed.

A large crowd assembled in and near the court room, eager to get a glimpse of the principals in one of the greatest human interest tragedies that had been enacted in any court.

Mary seemed to be just as happy over the ending of the episode as was Browning.

Browning arrived at the surrogate's office in his Rolls Royce. Mary and her parents, humble folk from Astoria, came in a clattering taxicab.

Leave Court Together.

After the formalities of signing the papers, voiding the adoption, all the principals left the office together. All got into the same taxicab and sped off, the Rolls Royce following.

The crowd started to follow on foot.

Some distance from the surrogate's office, Browning got out of the taxicab and jumped into his limousine.

With the "Cinderella" episode officially disposed of, District Attorney Richard Newcombe, through his secretary, announced that his investigation of the case did not disclose any basis for criminal action.

"The case is closed, as far as I am concerned," he said.

Scene at Broadway Hotel.

An hour after the adoption was set aside, Browning, Mary and her parents arrived at Hotel Belvedere, Broadway and 54th street, and created a scene of the wildest commotion. They had almost managed to elude reporters who had pursued them in taxicabs for 15 miles.

At the elevator, Mary cried out: "I will not be forced to go up to that room."

Browning has a room in the hotel.

There was a persistent rumor that a minister had been sent for to marry them.

One hundred and fifty guests in the dining room looked upon the scene in amazement.

Mary was literally dragged into the elevator by her companions.

The excitement in the hotel lobby became so intense that two automobile loads of policemen had to be sent to the scene to restore order.

Wanted to Become Nun.

While Browning was preparing to go to court, information came from Newark, N. J., that his "Cinderella" was trying to become a nun. She presented herself this morning at the orphanage of St. John the Baptist of Newark, according to this information, and asked to be taken in. She was accompanied by her parents.

Mary Louise was informed that the institution was not a convent but an orphanage.

Crestfallen, Mary Louise and her parents then went to the Dominican Priory in Newark. There she told her story of her experiences as the millionaire's real estate operator's "Cinderella" and tearfully requested that they allow her to become a nun.

"This is a serious step you are taking," the Father in charge told her. "It is something that you must consider very carefully."

Then he advised the Spas to go home and talk the matter over thoroughly.

Dope Squad Chief Under Arrest

Three Trusted Government Agents Also in Custody Charged With Participating in Gigantic Distribution of Drugs in Chicago.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—Colonel Will Gray Beach, chief of the narcotic division of the Internal Revenue Department for the Chicago district, and three of his trusted agents are under arrest today as the central figures in a sensational series of raids against dope sellers and addicts.

Arrest of Beach and his assistants, high federal officers say, brings to light facts which indicate that Beach, who for years was regarded as one of the most effective narcotic battlers in the nation, actually has participated in a gigantic distribution of drugs, making it possible for a syndicate of Chicago men to gather millions of dollars.

According to reports from official sources, confessions were obtained that expose the inside workings and technique of the most gigantic narcotic smuggling and distribution system ever conceived.

Partly on a basis of the confessions and partly through evidence gathered secretly during the last two weeks, a series of "dope joint" raids was put into execution in all parts of Chicago.

Warrants authorizing search of the living quarters of Beach and his three agents also were issued. In the raid upon the rooms of Colonel Beach, according to the federal men in charge, quantities of jewels, including many diamonds and other valuable merchandise, were found. Part of this collection already has been identified as having been stolen by drug addicts. It was said.

Red Men Begin Annual Session In Kingston

Fifty-third Great Council Session of New York State Improved Order of Red Men Here for Three Days—Interesting Addresses at Opening Session—Real Descendant of Pocahontas Present.

The 53rd great session of the Great Council of New York kindled its council fire in the hunting grounds of Kingston on Tuesday's sun, 11 of Sturgeon moon, G. S. D. 434.

In other words, the 53rd annual session of the Great Council of the State of New York opened its session today in Kingston. The sessions are being held at the Elks' Home on Fair street, commencing this morning and continuing until Thursday. During that time the convention has much business to transact, including the election of officers for the ensuing year as well as numerous legislative problems for the betterment of the order.

The morning session was opened shortly after 9 o'clock with public exercises in which the great chiefs and the delegates were welcomed to Kingston by Mayor Morris Block.

With true Indian spirit the program was opened with the singing of "America" by the assemblage. After the session had been brought to order by Henry C. Macholdt of Kingston, chairman of the great council committee of arrangements, the speaker briefly of the objects of the order and the spirit of Redmanism, he introduced Mayor Block, who spoke as follows:

Mayor Block's Welcome.
Members of the Improved Order of Red Men:

It is a genuine pleasure to greet so large an assemblage of representative men from all sections of the great state of New York. More especially so because you have chosen our city as the place for your deliberations. On behalf of the city of Kingston I welcome you, and trust that this meeting will result in even greater achievements than you have accomplished in the past.

The organization of which you delegates are a part, I am informed, is making wonderful progress, and possesses many potential possibilities for the future.

Your activities and many good deeds, as reviewed to me by one of the prominent members of the United Order of Red Men, Philites, led me to the utmost respect and consideration of our community.

I sincerely trust that your deliberation here today will go far toward realizing the dreams and ambitions of the founders of your order, and that the decisions you arrive at will tend not only to benefit your members but as well those who are not affiliated with you.

I am sure I voice the feeling of all our people when I bid you welcome, and I am sure you will find that welcome so sincere and so spontaneous that for many years Kingston will be a pleasant memory.

In conclusion I can assure you that your presence in this old Colonial City is sincerely appreciated, and that we would be glad to have you come again.

At the conclusion of the mayor's address the orchestra struck up "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and the assembled Indians and their friends joined in singing. Chairman Macholdt briefly stated that on account of the limited time which the Great Council had in Kingston, all long speeches would be dispensed with in order that she might make train connections.

Great Sachem Speaks.
He then introduced Great Sachem Peter P. Prunty of Chittabogue, N. Y., who spoke as follows:

Mr. Prunty on behalf of the delegates of the Great Council thanked the mayor and city officials for the welcome extended to them during their three days' session in Kingston and said that the city of Kingston would and that the Red Men would so conduct themselves during their stay here that they would be ready to welcome the Great Council again.

Fifty years ago, Mr. Prunty said, the Great Council had met in the city of Kingston. Since that time the order has made great advancement and has grown in strength and popularity until it is one of the greatest truly American organizations of the time. The Red Men, founded entirely on American principles and carrying on the real American customs, was fast coming to be recognized as the one and only true American order. Adopting the customs of the American Indian, the order was founded many years ago on a solid, patriotic foundation and by carrying on the true spirit of fraternalism the order has grown and prospered until today it is the only truly American order of the day. The spirit of fraternalism is practiced by the Red Men, he said, was a splendid thing and he commended the members and delegates that during the session of the Great Council this spirit of fraternalism should be practiced at all times.

During the session of the Great Council there were many matters of legislation to be talked of. In each, o'clock this evening.

Indian Parade Wednesday Night.
Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock the Indian parade will take place. The parade will form in front of the Elks' Home following the return from a trip around the Ashokan mountains. The delegates will be taken over this magnificent drive by carrying on the true spirit of fraternalism the order has grown and prospered until today it is the only truly American order of the day. The spirit of fraternalism is practiced by the Red Men, he said, was a splendid thing and he commended the members and delegates that during the session of the Great Council this spirit of fraternalism should be practiced at all times.

During the session of the Great Council there were many matters of legislation to be talked of. In each, o'clock this evening.

Republican Extension Tonight.
The Republican city convention will be held at the court house at 3 o'clock this evening.

of these matters he urged the individual to put aside any personal feeling and to co-operate in such a manner that the legislation adopted would be of benefit to the order and the tribes. He told them to put aside personal jealousies and to work for the order, discuss the matters brought before the council with a broad mind and finally to adopt such legislation as would be for the greatest benefit of the tribes of the state.

The Great Sachem's remarks met with uniform approval of the assemblage and following his brief talk a hearty welcome was given him by the delegates who with war-whoops and applause assisted the orchestra in a noisy demonstration.

Pocahontas Pledges Support.
Great Pocahontas Cooke of Poughkeepsie was next introduced by Chairman Macholdt and very briefly she spoke of the order and pledged the support of the Degree of Pocahontas. The Great Pocahontas was compelled to make her stay at the Great Council brief as train connections prevented her stopping in Kingston for any extended time.

Sealior Sagamore Responds.
The response to the Great Pocahontas was delivered by the Great Sealior Sagamore, James P. Gage of Mudjokeus, Tribe No. 428 of Esperance, N. Y. Mr. Gage stated that he was surprised to learn that he was on the program for the response to the Great Pocahontas. He pledged the support of the Red Men to the Degree of Pocahontas and said that if he were elected Great Sachem he would attempt to carry on the work of the order in a successful manner as it had been in the past. Mr. Gage is next in line for the office of Great Sachem of the Great Council.

Real Descendant of Pocahontas.
At this time Chairman Macholdt arose and stated that he had a surprise for the delegates which they perhaps would find of more than passing interest to the Great Council. In Kingston, a town which has been rich in Indian history, today resided the tenth descendant of Pocahontas. The fact that she had come to the opening session was proof of her interest in the order and the Degree of Pocahontas. He then introduced Mrs. James O. Winston who is the tenth descendant of the real Pocahontas from whom the Degree of Pocahontas took its name many years ago when it was organized. Mr. Macholdt said that it was a great pleasure to introduce to the convention a direct descendant of Pocahontas who although a native of Virginia he was proud to say could now be claimed by Kingston.

Miss Haldane Speaks.
Mrs. Winston acknowledged the honor of being presented to the convention and Miss Mary H. Haldane spoke briefly to the assemblage, thanking them for the demonstration which had been accorded Mrs. Winston. She told the Red Men and Pocahontas present that Mrs. Winston thoroughly appreciated the demonstration but was rather timid in appearing before the convention and making any remarks.

Following the session Mrs. Winston was surrounded by many of the members of the Degree of Pocahontas and Red Men who sought the honor of meeting a descendant of the real Pocahontas for whom the degree had been named.

Successors to Liberty Boys.
A delegate of Wyandotte Tribe was given the privilege of the floor and explained to the convention that he had in his possession a book dated 1772 which proved that the Liberty Boys of that time were the predecessors of the Red Men and that the Red Men were therefore the first and only American organization which had passed down through the years and still stood on a firm and rapidly strengthening foundation.

Regular Session Opens.
The public session was then brought to a close with a selection by the orchestra. Following the members had a brief reception and then retired until the first regular session of the council.

Those delegates who were not members of the Great Council were admitted to the degree at the morning session and the taking up of the business of the council.

Prestige & Profit

Goods advertised in newspapers are superior to non-advertised goods!

This is the conclusion of a Better Business Bureau that has been checking up newspaper advertising in an Eastern city.

Careful comparisons were made of advertised goods and similar lines that were not advertised.

In 95% of the cases, the Better Business Bureau reports, the advertised articles were superior in quality to the non-advertised articles.

Good news for newspaper readers—of course, but most of them know it by experience.

How about the national advertiser who is seeking that elusive thing called "prestige"?

A manufacturer's brands are in the best company when they are in the advertising columns of the daily newspaper. And since newspaper advertising sells goods, newspaper advertisers combine prestige with profit.

Choose Catskill Mountain Beauty

Catskill Mountain Bathing Beauty Contest at Stamford Saturday When Representative Will Be Selected for National Beauty Contest.

Beginning Friday evening, August 14, midsummer social activities take on an added interest at Stamford in the Catskills. The beautiful country club will be the scene of the annual Mardi Gras ball.

Those who attended Stamford's Mardi Gras ball of 1924 and years before are wondering just exactly how the entertainment committee is going to surpass the remarkable beauty and grandeur this year, but the committee, headed by Mrs. M. Thayer Jackson, only smiles and assures every inquiring person that the surprise and delight of their lives awaits the visitor.

This ball is the forerunner of the Catskill Mountain's greatest Saturday. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon of the 15th there will be gathered between fifty and seventy-five of America's most beautiful young ladies at the Rensselaer Swimming Casino. The occasion is an invitation to select the most beautiful representative of this famous summer resort district.

The judges of this contest will be motion picture producers, directors and stars, and three camera men representing three different motion picture syndicates will be on hand to make a test shot of each contestant. The grand prize gives the title of "Miss Catskill Mountains" and this young lady and her chaperone will go to Atlantic City National Beauty Pageant, September 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12, with all expenses paid by the Atlantic City Chamber of Commerce. Intense interest is being shown by a number of the Catskill Mountain villages, as beyond the general civic pride of having a "Miss Catskill Mountains," there is the added honor of having "Miss Catskill Mountains" come from "your own village." Prizes for the day include a bathing suit to each contestant presented by the Saxony Knitting Mills of Seattle, Washington, the grand prize of trip to Atlantic City and a loving cup, and five additional prizes. Following the beauty parade and awarding the prizes will be a magnificent water sports program featuring Jackie Ott, Anne Booker, Olympic team contestant, and other nationally known swimmers and divers.

This is an invitation affair, and every village in the Catskills is invited to have their most beautiful young lady present to represent their own town. The only conditions are the teach young lady be between the ages of sixteen and thirty-five, and be of good character. Still Greater Quality; New Lower Prices

While the motoring public acclaims the Chrysler Six as the most phenomenal car ever built, Walter P. Chrysler announces notable improvements in quality—of materials, of performance, of craftsmanship, of equipment, of design.

Greater Power—Increased cylinder bore resulting in approximately 10 per cent more torque, giving 70 miles per hour with greater ease and quickness than ever before.

Faster Acceleration—5 to 25 miles in 7 seconds, power enough to climb the steepest grades and pull through deepest mud or sand, from refined power plant with a still larger crankshaft of 50 per cent greater torsional rigidity.

Remarkable Fuel Economy—Carbonation improved to deliver 20 and more miles per gallon of gas, line, notwithstanding increased power and faster acceleration.

Improved Rear Axle—Ring gears and pinions are larger, differential carrier heavier to handle increased engine power.

Distinctive Color Combinations—Body colors, in ducos, are the most attractive and beautiful ever offered. Chrysler-designed, Fisher-built closed bodies are further refined, attractively low and gracefully rounded.

Extraordinary Equipment—Chrysler equipment is of a quality and completeness rarely found on any car—even the highest priced. It includes Purolator, which filters all dirt from crankcase oil as the motor runs; Watson Stabilizers, the most efficient and most costly device of its type to absorb the shock of road irregularities; air-cleaner, which removes all road dirt and dust from air entering the engine; thermostat control of water heat for most efficient operations; Chrysler-LOCKHEED hydraulic four-wheel brakes which provide utmost safety control; Sparta "SOB" electric horn; ducos durable body finish; balloon tires.

Two years ago, Chrysler predicted that the Chrysler Six would change the whole trend of motor car design, engineering, manufacture and equipment.

Today the industry is celebrating as advanced improvements features which Chrysler introduced and which made the Chrysler Six the outstanding quality car in all the world.

Today, while others proclaim Chrysler Six features of two years ago, Chrysler strides forward to new limits of quality, of performance results, of advanced engineering.

Chrysler Six owners the world over do not forget these truths:

Two years ago, Chrysler pioneered the compact, roomy car, combining comfort and ease of riding, without wasteful weight or extravagant size.

Two years ago, Chrysler introduced a new ratio of horse-power per pound of weight. The Chrysler Six is today the only car in the world which gives a speed of 70 miles per hour and more, combined with gasoline economy of better than 20 miles per gallon.

Two years ago, Chrysler created the first double-tone color combinations and re-created American taste in motor car finish.

Two years ago, Chrysler pioneered Purolator—the oil-filter which cleanses your crankcase oil as the motor runs.

Two years ago, Chrysler advanced an entirely new design in bodies, and today

Chrysler-designed closed bodies are all executed by Fisher.

Two years ago, Chrysler initiated the four-wheel hydraulic brake trend. The Chrysler Six was the first car to have, as standard equipment, these self-equalizing brakes of super-safety.

Two years ago, Chrysler Six provided, as standard equipment, the air-cleaner which keeps dust and dirt out of your engine.

Two years ago, Chrysler gave thermostat control of motor heat to assure greatest working efficiency.

Two years ago, Chrysler eliminated side-sway by a new method of spring suspension exclusive to the Chrysler Six.

Today, the new developments initiated by Chrysler quality have not yet brought any other car abreast of the Chrysler Six of two years ago.

And meanwhile, Chrysler has developed new measures of manufacturing fitness, new features of extraordinary equipment, new superlatives of performance and new standards of riding and driving ease now available in the new Chrysler Six at new low prices.

Discriminating buyers are naturally refusing to go back to the Chrysler standards of two years ago. They seek the Chrysler standards of today. That is why Chrysler sales are reaching new high peaks each month.

Modes Predicted by French Makers

Short Skirts and Ensemble to Remain—Embroidery Is Featured.

The virtue of patience, and its inevitable rewards are now becoming apparent to those ladies whose slender budgets are forever placing unyielding strictures upon their sartorial fancies. Midsummer is proverbially the time for economical wardrobe acquisitions, and for the thrifty and long-waiting the hour of opportunity has struck. The problem is not nearly so simple as it seems—the numerous ladies who await this moment to complete their outfits are concerned far less with today than with tomorrow, and the new frock or coat or hat is acquired principally with an eye to its future utility. Obviously, says a fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune, it becomes necessary to approximate the next quirks and basic changes in fashion before proceeding, and it is equally essential to recognize modes whose vogues are losing their former potent appeal. The following considerations are directed toward those ladies who now are hesitantly approaching their counters after an unseasonal absence dictated by the laws of economics.

Moderately Short Skirt

The question of skirt length is as mooted as ever. The acute abbreviations of some spring and summer models brought the few remaining grounds to their feet with the usual philippics, but the remnants of that once large army are a little faded these days and their lamentations are of no effect. Bizarre extremes in any style are checked by their own shortcomings, and no woman who has witnessed another fare forth in knee-length skirt will ever wish to imitate her. And so the new skirt length will vary from about three to six inches below the knees, and there will be the expected dissenters, some Victorian in their inhibitions, others crude in their exhibitions.

A question that invariably presents itself in considering the new season is the silhouette. The diversity of opinion on this subject is unusual—many contend that the flare will be the dominating factor and an equal number insist that the unadorned straight line is due to return. The latter are principally sentimentalists who live in the good old days and opportunists who once looked attractive in the garb of straight simplicity. As a matter of fact the youthful silhouette has been quite eclipsed by an outline which emphasizes width anywhere from the waistline downward. The term "flare" means a sudden widening, and if you insist upon that connotation, the flare, except in its more tempered versions, will hardly be the ruling spirit of next season's fashions. The modish silhouette will of the fashionables, but the idea is no longer the ingenuity of the designer for an extension of its popularity. Personally we should avoid its acquisition, unless the model were particularly becoming. In other words, do not choose an ensemble merely because it is an ensemble—rather select it as you would a separate coat or hat, basing its appeal upon its personal attractiveness and upon the smart factors of the future which it incorporates.

Extremes are rapidly losing their appeal, and bizarre unadorned severity is traveling the same pathway—and for the same reason. The new mode will be feminine and rather more artistic than its predecessor. It will be a mode of details whose charm will have none of the exaggerated masculinity that served as the dying flare of youthful simplicity. And that is the most significant consideration for the hosts of women who are just now engaged in building wardrobes for the future.

Parisians are placing their fashion interests for the moment almost entirely in an exhibition of dresses and jewels by Callot, Cartier, Jenny, Lanvin and Worth in the pretty little Pavillon de l'Elegance as a part of the Exposition Nationale des Arts Decoratifs. This season the exposition has become the smart center of Parisian society and fashions. A more beautiful display of French frocks has never been exhibited, and after seeing it visitors are bound to be impressed by the fact that Paris will ever remain the fashion center of the world.

The Callot frocks are distinctly Callot in their gorgeous colorings and elaborate embroideries; Jenny is at her best, with her wearable frocks showing particular attention to the daintiness of their detail; Lanvin gives the best of her picturesque creations, which are always worthy of a museum; while Worth is distinctly himself with a rich collection featuring the handsomest of tissues, suggestive of court dresses. Without a display of jewels from Cartier no one could appreciate the true finish of French dress, and this feature rounds out the Pavillon de l'Elegance.

Very Full Fluffy Skirts

Callot's tulle dresses, with very full fluffy skirts, which appear to wonderful advantage in the exhibition, are gaining in popularity by the minute. They are youthful and are a relief from the extreme straight lines that characterized the mode until this season—they demonstrate that youth may be attained without the slim-line silhouette. Callot's influence in the world of studied fashions is often taken lightly at first, but later invariably becomes more significant. The exhibition models of this great artist, however, are not all of the carefully detailed type. The straightest of straight lines appear in contrast to the newer movement of the flare, but immediately one has the feeling of looking upon them as a fashion of the past, and it is evident that in the not-distant future these straight frocks will be considered merely as documents.

A similar impression is conveyed by the Lanvin models. Her full skirts, which she has insisted upon throughout all the years of the slim-line silhouette, seem to speak more of the future than the past. The straight outline is not missing in this collection, but whenever there are clinging lines there is invariably much greater fullness around the ankles.

In the Worth collection mother-of-pearl in various embroidered designs is a strong feature. A dinner dress of wine red georgette crepe is embroidered all over in mother-of-pearl disks.

The Paris arts exposition has also had its effect upon millinery, and many of the modistes are adopting the futuristic trimmings suggested by it. Head painting, beanie stitching, leather and fabric appliques are some of the methods by which the art of the exposition can be translated to modern millinery. Pasted feathers, gold ribbon cocardes and cut-outs in felt, velours and kid already have been used by leading modistes and will undoubtedly be in evidence for autumn.

known. The thing for the people to decide is whether they want to put additional power in the hands of a governor by permitting him to appoint state officers who are now elected by the people. The consolidation of departments has been discussed pro and con, but no one yet has guaranteed it would save the people a cent, while some have conceded it would mean a larger payroll of state employees. Those are matters the voters should study.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

STANDING THE HEAT.

I have spoken before about the effects of excessive heat upon the body and mind. By eating smaller quantities of food at more frequent intervals, more comfort can be attained. The main effect of excessive heat is upon the skin and nervous system.

Where is that annoying prickly heat which is really an inflammatory condition of the sweat glands, the poisons of the perspiration keeping up the irritation. Clothing then irritates it further, a little vigorous scratching and a real skin trouble gets well started, which is hard to clear up. The effect of extreme heat on the nervous system causes thirst, lack of appetite, and sleeplessness. This combination sets up a "nervous" irritability, which makes one type of individual short tempered, and another very melancholy and depressed.

As you have learned before this, the real trouble with hot weather is the amount of moisture in the air. Air full of moisture simply encloses the body in a hot wet blanket, because the skin can't get rid of hot moisture in an air that is already nearly saturated with moisture.

This is the reason that the wind, the trade wind as it is called, is so helpful to people living in the tropics. The wind comes along and sweeps the wet air that is around the body completely away, and this gives the body a chance to get rid of some more heat and moisture.

This moving air is what makes the electric fan so grateful in the very hot weather. Someone has figured out that the work required in fanning yourself generates more heat than is moved away by the fan.

However there is no question but that very gentle fanning will keep the air moving, and with this moving air will go the heated envelope of air you manufactured about your face and body.

Anything that will keep air moving is going to make it possible for you to undergo a hot, moist day.

Our ventilating systems are practically ignoring cubic feet of air space, height of ceilings and so forth. The whole idea is to "move" the air along, so that it will carry your body heat away with it.

Hobbies of the Great and the Near Great

Being a Series of Intimate Glimpses Into the Fads and Foibles of Well-Known Figures in National Life.

SENATOR ROBERT STANFIELD.

This is the twentieth of a series of intimate sketches which reveal the national political figure as a "brother under the skin" to the man behind the plow, the white collar worker or the day laborer. Others will follow.

Having spent twenty-five years as a cowboy on the rolling ranges of the west, the obvious hobby of Senator Robert Nelson Stanfield (R., Oregon) is a love for life in the open. To the senator the west is a siren ever calling him back to his first love. It was the scene of his youthful battles with adversity, his self-achieved triumphs in the cattle world and lastly, of cruel, fate-given reverses, from which he is now fighting to retrieve his fortunes. While the west probably placed as many thorns as roses in the pathway of his life, Stanfield always turns for "home" and the rolling plains whenever he can get away from his senatorial duties.

The senator's career in the cattle industry is an epic of the west. No wonder he turns to it for pleasure, work or rest. Born in Oregon, he early became a cowboy on the ranges of Idaho and Montana. His first duties were on the chuck-wagon, but later he rode herd on the far-flung plains with the best of horse-men.

Became Cattle King.

Fighting against great odds, he finally swung together a small herd for himself. Slowly the herd grew until at last he was one of the greatest cattle owners in all the west, if not in the world. His herds roamed through three or four states, their numbers ran into tens of thousands. He added sheep to his holdings, and the herds were doubled in size. He was one of the mightiest cattlemen of the west.

When Stanfield first came to the senate in 1921, he began to reduce his cattle holdings. Then along came the great cattle panic of 1922. A tidal wave of losses swept through the range country. Friend of every cattleman, Stanfield was caught with hundreds of thousands of dollars in uncollectible loans, upon which not a cent could be paid by the penniless ranchers. His reverses, in all, were said to total millions of dollars, but he has started out anew to recoup his fortunes in the land he loves best.

Still Rides.

His cowboy training has made Stanfield one of the best horsemen in the senate. He loves to gallop along the capital's bridlepaths. His early life also gave him a keen interest in wild life and the great outdoors.

On vacations the senator invariably visits the ranges of Idaho and Oregon to ride herd once more for the love of it. He also is a lover of wild game, but never hunts to kill. His interest in wild flowers and the forest products of nature is acute. At his Oregon home he maintains a "herbarium," in which he cultivates wild flowers, herbs and plants of the open. He gives hours of his time to develop plants which he has transplanted from the forests.

The senator also reads for recreation, and he loves books on the old life of the west. Any frontier novel finds his immediate interest, and he refuses to close the book until he has learned who captured or slew the Indian chief, or who captured the rustler. His interest in these novels is strengthened by the fact that he has lived through many of their scenes and is personally familiar with their locales.

There is one secret weakness in the senator's life. It is a love for "ten cent" poker. He doesn't care about the stakes, winning or losing; he just loves the thrills of the game and its element of chance. In a way

Saw Hope Depart

An agitated woman entered the "Lost-and-Found" department at the car barn and told the man in charge she had lost a valuable vase. The man assured her he would leave no stone unturned till he found it. This phrase evidently pleased him for he repeated it several times. "I will leave no stone unturned," "I'm," said the lady, "I'm afraid there won't be much left of it if you find it under a stone."

Did I Ever Look Like That!

Many a woman after taking BURKE'S COD LIVER OIL and IRON TABLETS for a short time has looked at her old photograph and asked herself that question: "Did I ever look like THAT?" Sometimes the results are so amazing that it is hard for her to believe that she is the same person. In the place of swarthy angles she sees beautifully rounded curves of solid, healthy flesh. That tired, nerve-racked look about the eyes has gone and in its place there is sparkle and magnetism. The undernourished tissues receive the proper amount of nutrition and the entire figure and carriage reflect the vivacity of glowing health and womanly vigor. You can improve your appearance in the same manner. You do not need to be thin and underweight. You can have the good health, vitality and proper amount of flesh on your bones that always distinguishes the beautiful woman.

Check up on your balloon tire pressures—you may find that you have been riding on "high-pressure balloons" and losing the advantages of true low air pressure.

THE whole purpose of low pressure cushioning is defeated if your balloon tires are pumped up too hard.

Of course, it may be that the kind of balloons you are using must be run hard in order to protect the tires themselves.

If you find this is true, you will be glad to know the facts about U. S. Royal Balloons.

These tires provide all the comfort that balloon tires are intended to give, and yet you need have no fear about the life of the tires when run at proper cushioning pressure.

U. S. Royal Balloons are built to be run at true low air pressures.

They have the new flat "Low-Pressure Tread."

This tread has far greater area of road contact than a round tread, and distributes the weight evenly over the entire tread surface.

That is why U. S. Royal Balloons wear slowly, evenly and gracefully.

They have the further advantage of Latex-treated Web Cord construction—a U. S. Rubber Company invention that gives the ideal combination of strength and flexibility essential to real balloon cushioning.

Ride on U. S. Royal Balloons and you will know what a world of comfort genuine low pressure can give.

FAIR SENORITA

Sweetheart.

Mexico City, Mexico.—Ines Yargia, a sixteen-year-old senorita as determined as she is romantic, recently served an ultimatum on her parents to the effect that, unless they gave their consent to her marriage with Isidro Covarrubias within ten minutes, she would throw herself from the roof of the four-story apartment building in which the Yargia family lived.

Whereupon she fled upstairs, locked the door leading to the roof and poised herself on a cornice overlooking Nuevo Mexico street.

Ciriaco Yargia, the father, tore his hair in desperation for a few seconds as he reflected that his daughter had inherited the firm character of her mother, and the latter, he felt sure, from past experience, would never recede from her stand that Isidro, as a son-in-law, was impossible. Then he dashed to the nearest police station, only a block away, to seek disinterested counsel.

Firemen Hurry to Rescue.

A few hurried sentences explained the situation to a comisario. That official had an inspiration. Next to the police station were the firemen. He called out a hook and ladder company and the fire ladders, all dressed up in huge helmets and light blue uniforms clanged to the scene of the impending tragedy, unfurling a life net as they went.

They arrived about nine minutes and fifty-five seconds after Ines had leaped her ultimatum and was about to launch herself into space.

There ensued a lively game of tag between Ines and the firemen. The girl, while a gathering crowd cheered and Ciriaco watched the locked door with an air.

Catch Her in Fire Net.

Just as the door gave way Ines thought she had outwitted the net holders and jumped. By a supreme effort and overcoming a couple of arches, the firemen managed to intercept enough of the net between Ines and the pavement to break her fall.

But she achieved her purpose, for the sight of her daughter waiting through the air destroyed the last of Madame Yargia's opposition.

She did not, however, win Isidro. That youth faded from the scene after witnessing his sweetheart's leap. The papers quoted him the next day as stating that he did not think he possessed enough of the cave man stuff to live happily with such a woman as Ines promised to become.

More Woman on Track

Columbus, Ohio.—Mrs. Emma Rebo, "fat woman" of Johnny J. Jones' expedition, left for her home in India, Mich. because of a serious illness which resulted from the heat.

Her condition was reported by doctors who attended her here to be serious. Her present weight, 675 pounds, and her weakened condition made it necessary that she be moved from the Sherman D. Brown ambulance, which had conveyed her to the Union station from White Cross hospital, on a bag-

In Fire Heroine

Edith, Mich.—Miss Eva Lake, night operator for the Michigan Bell Telephone company, asked her life to be made at her post and sound the alarm in an early morning fire which nearly wrecked the interior of the Wilson building where the telephone office is located. An electric push button in a rear room of the telephone office started an electric alarm, saving the village night fire alarm. Miss Lake found the room where this signal button is located filled with smoke, but managed to reach the alarm.

Baby Falls 3 Floors;
Lands Unhurt on Dog

New York.—Mrs. Thomas Rose of Long Island City put her year-old son in a perambulator near a third-story window. Thomas, Jr., was seized with the urge to investigate.

He clambered upon the window ledge and looked down into the yard, where a dog was walking back and forth. Thomas yelled at the dog and reached out for him. The next instant he landed on the back of the surprised dog. The baby was not seriously hurt, nor was the dog injured.

LITTLE BOY GIVES

New York.—Dreaming, perhaps, of the picnic of which fate cheated him, five-year-old Tommy Daly died in Union hospital, a victim of love for his mother.

Playing with his younger sister, Rita, in the kitchen of the Daily home, Tommy watched his mother cooking a pot of chicken for a family picnic to Rockaway Beach. His father, Patrolman Thomas J. Daly, just returned from night duty in Chinatown, was asleep in another room.

Suddenly the chicken boiled over, extinguishing the gas burner below it. The scorching gas, set on fire by another burner, billowed out and ignited Mrs. Daly's flimsy brass dress. In childish terror Tommy and his sister ran from the room, but the mother's screams stopped Tommy's flight.

Suddenly he turned about and hurried back to his mother's side, unaware of the flaming danger that threatened her, but determined to protect her. When Daly was rescued by their cries, both mother and son were severely burned. Daly quickly beat out the blaze in his wife's clothing.

Neighbors aided in carrying the mother and children to the street, while flames ran on the fire that developed after it had destroyed most of the kitchen furniture.

Mrs. Daly was lying critically burned in Union hospital, only a few beds away, when Tommy died. Daly, eight years a policeman and a war veteran, and Rita were treated by ambulance surgeons for burns on face and arms. The only thing not burned in the kitchen was the picnic chicken.

Wins Wild Race With Avalanche and Death

Jackson, Wyo.—Racing ahead of an avalanche with his life and the safety of his family and home at stake, and winning by a matter of minutes, was the experience of Gus Huff, Wyoming ranchman, whose story of seeing the north side of Sheep mountain crumble and fall across the Gros Ventre river valley near here the other day, became known.

Huff said he was on horseback at the foot of the mountain when it began to move. He was riding near his ranch, he said, when he saw this. He turned and began a desperate ride for safety. The avalanche, with a roar, Huff declared, bore down toward him in the form of a moving wall of bowlders, trees and earth 100 feet high. His frightened horse, struck by flying splinters and stones, ran to higher ground at one side, and the big landslide missed him by only a few feet, he declared.

Once clear of the oncoming mountain, Huff raced to his home nearby. He took his wife and daughter to a point of safety. Huff said many of his cattle were killed, two ranches above his were wiped out and that the ranger station nearby was submerged by the rising water. His home, which was in the bed of the suddenly formed reservoir, is under many feet of water.

Dental Theme Painful,
Girl Dodges School

New York.—It was the pulling teeth to get Carmella De Cerna, fourteen, to go to school. Miss Margaret Manning, attendance officer for the board of education, testified in the Flushing police court.

She has remained away from school ever since she was asked to write a composition about her experience with the dentist, she said. Health inspectors after an examination of her mouth at school two months ago, told her to get her teeth fixed. After such painful duty was performed her teacher asked her to turn in an essay on the care of the teeth and tell of her experience in undergoing treatment.

It was such a painful subject that she decided that rather than write about it she would stay home from school.

Boy Sacrifices Life in Vain Attempt at Rescue

Minneapolis, Minn.—Attempting to save a child from drowning in the Mississippi river here, Eugene Smith, ten, lost his life along with Marcel Lee, seven, when they became entangled in the branches of a submerged tree. Smith and Lee had started out in a leaky rowboat which soon filled with water. Smith swam to shore, but Lee refused to leave the boat and went down with it. Smith swam back, but his rescue efforts were futile. The bodies were recovered.

Ayres Promotes
Woodstock ArtMilton Mayer and John Banks Showing Work This Week at Woodstock Inn—Next Exhibition by Boyce Gossard.

The series of exhibitions of paintings being run at The Old Woodstock Inn at Woodstock this season marks a revival of interest in the work done by several of the more conservative painters and artists at the colony.

To open to the public a series of one-man shows held aside from the local gallery was the idea of Steven B. Ayres, and a number of the leading artists have assisted thus far. The first exhibit was by John F. Carlson and attracted a great deal of favorable comment. The present show is by Milton Mayer. Boyce Gossard will give the third exhibition, beginning August 17.

About twenty pictures are shown by Mr. Mayer, consisting of landscapes, several portraits, and sketches of imagination. There is an Oriental's head and a figure of Christ. The artist has chosen his subjects from a wide range. He eschews the modern tendency toward a clash of color, and several of his paintings on display show an effective use of many colors with harmonious result.

The remarkable thing about this artist's painting is that he has been practically self-taught. A picture recently hung in the Woodstock Art Association gallery won him praise from several of the leading artists in Woodstock. He has exhibited in New York studios. Mr. Mayer lives this summer at Lake Hill, but he plans to build a studio on Ohio mountain, near Woodstock, in the near future.

A number of visitors have been interested in the work shown the past week and the exhibit will remain hung until August 15. Pictures are not for sale and no admission is charged to the exhibition. Visitors are welcome.

John Banks is also showing this week in a room adjoining the Mayer show, a display of his sculpture that has won him many friends and several purchasers.

The Federal Reserve a National Problem

By WILLIAM E. KNOX

President, American Bankers Association

THE Federal Reserve situation is the paramount problem before American banking today. The time is approaching when it will be necessary for the nation to consider the question of rechartering the Federal Reserve Banks.

The Federal Reserve System must be preserved. It is one of the most scientific banking systems in the world. During the last ten years, through all the stress of war, inflation, depression and revival, it served this country as no country was ever served by a banking system. We know that without it our nation would have had a financial disaster far more devastating than any that ever assailed it.

While we have this great loyalty and obligation to the System, we must recognize that among its friends there has arisen serious controversy over many matters of detail. There are many demands for change in the methods of its management and in details of its operation. Where these demands represent broadly the greatest good of the greatest number we should support them. Where they represent merely narrow, diverse interests of one part of the country or one type of business or finance they should be subordinated to the common good. We should meet on the great broad ground of the common welfare—first to preserve the system in general as it is now constructed, and secondly to bring about, carefully and soundly, such changes as are required to adjust it to circumstances of today.

The task of considering, sifting, weighing and co-ordinating discussion and suggestions regarding the Federal Reserve System has been confided to the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association. It is hoped that thereby the Federal Reserve System will be given the best thought and the best support of banking. There is no greater service banking can render the nation than this. It goes right to the heart of good management of the public economy of America.

The Mint's Sidelines

The United States mints make other objects besides coins. All of the medals for the army and navy are turned out by the mints. Medals of all the Presidents, the Secretaries of the Treasury, the Directors of the Mint, have been designed and executed by the mints. Recently the mints inaugurated the practice of making medals of the Under Secretaries of the Treasury. Congress has authorized the mint to make up 40,000 medals to commemorate the arrival of the first shipload of Norse immigrants on board the sloop Restauration, which is to be celebrated at the Norse-American Centennial in Minnesota next summer.

At the last session of Congress there was a flood of bills seeking to have commemorated half dollars the only portrait which would explain the man, his greatness and his fall, would be that including all the qualities that made him.

Along with this disposition to over-emphasize the failings of a subject, to which too many modern literary portrait painters are prone, is the less offensive tendency in others to twist traits to the justification of their preconceptions. Here even Gamaliel Bradford is not wholly free—albeit usually so and always conscientious. His conception of Aaron Burr as a man who looked on life as a gay adventure for the extraction of fun may be possible, but it was scarcely just to cite his action in carrying the body of Richard Montgomery, his loved commander, on his shoulders through a rain of bullets to the American line. No such extraordinary explanation is necessary. Burr's natural gallantry, his devotion to his friends, his love of Montgomery, offer explanation enough; and he is surely entitled to the credit. On that occasion Burr was not playing a child's game, he was doing a brave man's work.

Many years ago Cromwell gave the best possible advice to the literary portrait painter—"warts and all." He did not say just "warts," but "warts—and all." Only thus can we have a living likeness painted with fidelity to truth. It is a wholesome tendency to paint in the warts, but it can be easily overcome—when nothing but warts are shown.

Voting for the Right Man

Wherever there is a county courthouse, a number of leaflets are always about and the number varies according to the size of the courthouse.

Several days ago a group of men were lined up on the small curb that fences the Marion county courthouse yard. Several were colored. A colored woman who had just obtained a divorce from her husband in one of the Superior courts passed triumphantly by and stopped before the group long enough to remark: "You didn't vote for the right man last fall. It's all your own fault. You wouldn't be out of work if you had voted right."—Indianapolis News.

Pensions for Professors

Exemption from duties with a pension "equal to the income they may enjoy" is obligatory for professors of secondary, commercial and special instruction in the public schools of Chile, who have completed 30 years of service and have reached the age of fifty-five. The government may, for very special reasons, authorize these employees to continue performing their duties for five years more. This is provided in decree law No. 287, promulgated March 12, 1925, and officially reported to the State department by William Miller Collier, United States ambassador at Santiago.

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

LEADS IN MAKING GOOD AMERICANS

Although Frank Clay Cross, new director of the national Americanism commission of the American Legion, has spent much of his life, as he says, "above the clouds," far up the sides of Colorado mountains just at the timber line, he measures up to a family tradition of grasping the facts of life as they are and fighting to mold them into something better.

It is the pioneer spirit, a spirit that goes out into the wilderness and hews from dense forests homes and cities and states, a spirit that conquers plains and mountains and, the physical side subdued, moves on to wrestle mightily with the fier, the spiritual things.

Frank Cross's family has been a family of fighting pioneers for generations, always on the frontier of civilization. His forebears came to America before the Revolution. His great-grandfather was a pioneer settler in Marion county, Indiana, where national headquarters of the Legion is located. The family trekked across country with the covered wagon. From Indiana they moved into Iowa when that state was opening up. Then to Kansas and to Colorado, while the buffalo were still on the plains and Indian bands roamed the country. "In coming to Indianapolis," he says, "I am the first of the tribe to back track and hit the trail for the East."

He had laid a precedent in some sort for that, when he hit the trail for overseas and the battlefields of France when there was work that needed much to be done over there. Ancestors of his had fought in every one of the nation's wars. His entire family—his father, two brothers and himself—volunteered in 17. A younger brother, Charles, lost his life in France.

Frank Cross put in 13 months in France. He was on detached service with the British north of Calais, looking after American troops who came across the channel from England. Then he was sent down to Tours with the French, where he handled all shipments out of that city. He was discharged in Wyoming in July, 1919.

He became assistant chemist with an oil company for about a year. In the interval he married Miss Helen M. Fry, a former schoolmate at the University of Denver. She was of a family of teachers and Cross' thoughts turned to that profession. He went in for more schooling—economics, sociology and political science—and then became superintendent of a consolidated school. In 1923 he became head of the department of economics at the Colorado School of Mines.

He also became a lecturer at the Denver "opportunity school." That was a turning point for him, the thing which led directly to his appointment as director of the Americanism commission. He gave lectures of advice, inspiration, information. He touched on anything which would be generally helpful to the foreign-born seeking to become American citizens and to play their part as such. He had two thoughts in mind. One was to give all the information necessary to pass the naturalization examination. The other was to give them an understanding and appreciation of America, of what the country stands for, of its history, its institutions, its customs, its ideals, its aspirations and to inspire them to live good American citizens. "Just better citizenship" is the way he sums it up.

Helping to make out the questions for teacher examinations in the Colorado schools, the new director found out that many of the teachers, especially in outlying districts, knew "less than a kid ought to know" about the fundamentals of Americanism. So he organized an Americanism section in the State Education association. He also formed the Allied Council for Americanism Committee, embracing the various patriotic societies of the state.

Meanwhile John G. Vician, commander of the Colorado department of the Legion, had seen his work and invited him to become chairman of the state Americanism committee. From this position he was advanced by the national executive committee to the directorship of the National Americanism commission, where he goes on pioneering (as his father had done for years before him), not with dreamy velocities but with a practicality that goes to the heart of the problem, for a better America.

Famous Cavalry Charge

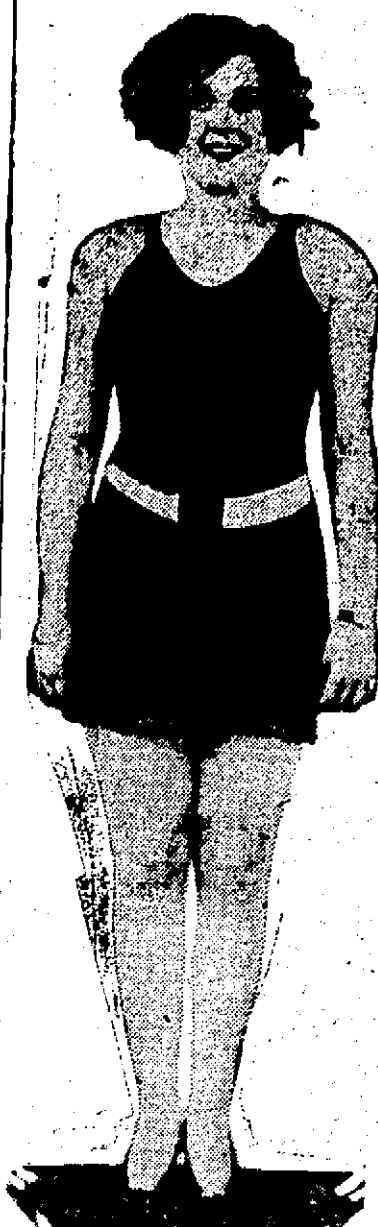

The order for the charge of the Light brigade at Balaklava read as follows: "Lord Raglan wishes the cavalry to advance rapidly to the front and try to prevent the enemy carrying away the guns. French cavalry is on your left." The Light brigade advanced straight to its front and soon came under the fire from the guns of both flanks. Five minutes later the guns in front got in their fire. Only two formed bodies of the Light brigade found their way back. The brigade lost 247 men and 497 horses out of a total strength of 678 engaged in the charge which, from first to last, occupied 20 minutes.

New York, Aug. 11.—Industrial and railroad stocks led the way to higher prices in the stock market today, while the oil stocks, a few of the motors and many of the specialties declined to lower levels. The result was a very irregular trend, with heavy liquidations near the opening, and a gradual improvement as the session advanced.
Rail mergers and rumors of mergers, consolidations, buying for control and new alignments in railroad properties were the principal topics of interest in the financial district. Demand for Wabash and Lackawanna followed reports that Delaware and Hudson was indirectly buying the former with the aid of the latter, and that Lackawanna would submit a formal offer to Wabash, with an agreement to guaranty dividend on its stock.
The Van Sweringen, or Nickel Plate stocks were also strong and active, with Chesapeake and Ohio in the lead and a score or more of the best known railroads shares gained a point or more.
American General and General Electric, with General Railway Signals furnished most of the sensational features in the industrial stocks. "Can" moved up buoyantly to 231 for an additional gain of about 7 points. General Electric rose to 314 for a gain of 5 1/2 points and General Railway Signal added 34 points, jumping to 290 for a gain of 100 points on the movement.
Pan American oils weakened and unsettled the oil stock list.
The market was inactive and sluggish after the third hour. Public utility stocks were sold on profit taking.
Industrial and money conditions were unchanged. Call money ruled at 4 1/2 per cent.

Body of Chester Breslin Recovered
By Telegram to The Freeman.
Manchester, N. H., Aug. 11.—Near where the body of Miss Irene Malanson, Winthrop, Mass., beauty expert was found floating Sunday on Pine Island pond, the body of Chester Breslin, missing Malden man and Miss Malanson's companion, was found today in the mud near the upper archway.
Breslin's body was recovered by Michael Kearney after 72 hours of diligent dragging of the small pond by police and citizens. Medical Referee Dr. James J. Powers was immediately summoned to view the body as it was taken from the water and left lying undisturbed near the little lake.
The finding of Breslin's body came just about the time his brother, Arthur Breslin, who hurried here, expressed the belief that Chester and Miss Malanson must have been thrown into the water by a maniac. At the same time the police were rejoiced that a rejected suitor of the girl may have been responsible for the drowning.
Finding of a canoe floating bottom upward on the pond is said to foreshadow a double drowning. An employee of the little boat house on the pond today seemed to remember that a man and woman, the man resembling Breslin, had taken out a canoe late Saturday night.
Breslin and Miss Malanson, petite girl of 24, together departed from a dance they attended Saturday night. They left the dance hall at 9:30 o'clock and it is now believed, strolled over to the pond.
Finding of Breslin's automobile half a mile from where the bodies were found contributed to the mystery, but now it is believed he left his car to visit the pond with Miss Malanson.

ROAD BUILDING
NIGHT VISIBILITY IS OF IMPORTANCE
Pounding through the night with black darkness at your sides and behind you, and only a ribbon of light piercing the veil in front of you may bring a thrill, or it may bring disaster. The narrow country road unfolds, to be plunged again behind you. You take the dips and curves, leap over bridges and culverts, flash past sign posts, the thrumming of your motor drowning out all other sounds. That's the thrill of it. But there's others on the road besides yourself, and that may bring disaster.
Any motorist who has driven an automobile at night has experienced an uneasy feeling when meeting or passing another car where the road-edge is blotted out by the darkness, and there is no way to tell how far one can turn out in safety. Many a fender has been ripped and bent because the driver was afraid of going into the ditch—which he couldn't see—and more than one serious accident has been due to the inability of the driver to see the road-edge.
Even with the advantages of good headlights and the use of dimmers the driver is badly handicapped unless he can clearly distinguish the edge of the road line, and know at a glance just how far he can turn out. Those drivers who are fortunate enough to have hard paved roads in their communities are well aware of the advantages of such roads for night driving. Paved road edges are easily seen in the darkness. They act as a guide line for the driver, showing him at a glance just where the road leaves off and the ditch begins. There is no straining of the eyes when one is driving. Dark objects are easily distinguished, and a horse-drawn vehicle or any other occupant of the road can be clearly seen from a distance.
Out in California, where over 2,500 miles of smooth roads are in use, their advantage for night driving so appealed to the Los Angeles and Santa Barbara Motor Express company that a letter was sent by the manager of the company to the Los Angeles county board of supervisors asking that hard-surface construction be used in building new roads. This company operates a fleet of trucks over a number of routes, many of the trips being made at night. In mountainous sections the need for clear vision at night is even more pronounced than on flat stretches of road, for if a driver should turn out too far to the side of the road a bad spill might result.
The experience of this company and the experiences of all those who drive at night carry a lesson for the motorist. The driver has been told time and again to be careful. His motor club is constantly working on plans to assure the safety of the auto owner. Anything that leads to safety on the road should be given particular attention, and when new roads are to be built careful consideration should be given to the feature of visibility at night.

Graham, chairman of the traffic planning and safety committee of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, speaking before the traffic club of New York. The traffic club is composed of railroad men and shippers.
"The shift in population in our cities from 40 per cent in 1900 to 51.4 per cent in 1920 has called for a reorganization of shipping facilities, with particular need for big local terminal operations."
"The railmen in the face of great obstacles have been meeting this situation effectively. Fortunately the development of the motor vehicle has come about in this period, providing rapid transportation in the short-haul local field. In 1914 the country was absorbing 25,000 motor trucks a year, and today about 400,000 new trucks are being purchased annually."
"This new development means better service for the public and more profits for the railroads which are engaging in truck operation. From the public standpoint the carrying of goods promptly from the railroad terminal by motor truck means a great saving of time. From the railroad standpoint the truck provides an economical means of carrying goods in less than carload lots over short hauls."
Mr. Graham also emphasized the need on the part of all transportation authorities to safeguard the public by demanding the severest punishment for reckless drivers and is seeking the best methods of traffic control.

Country Woman Said to Have Longest Life
The country woman, in spite of her long hours of hard work, has the best chance of attaining a ripe old age. She lives longer, on the average, than the city woman, the city man, or her country husband.
Mortality statistics show this to be the truth, notwithstanding the fact that better health protection is afforded in most cities than in found in country districts. The most favorable death rates are still found in the country, although it must be remembered that the reporting of deaths is probably far more complete in the cities than in the country.
Many cities have lower death rates than the country, however. The better health protection afforded by the health departments of most cities is weighed against urban congestion and certain rural conditions that may be specially conducive to health.

Fireworks Display at East Kingston Saturday
There will be a grand display of fireworks, Saturday evening, August 15, at East Kingston, near the Emma Wylant school along the Flatbush road, in honor of the festival of St. Mary. This celebration has been kept up for year after year and those interested are planning on continuing these celebrations in the future.
The experienced men who have been in charge of the display in former years are planning to make this year's celebration still better and intend to offer a big treat to the nearby towns and cities with the beautiful fireworks which will be set off on this date. An orchestra will supply music for the dancing and there will also be plenty of refreshments on hand.
Car Hits Telephone Pole.
A Dodge coupe containing three men, enroute toward Kingston, crashed into a telephone pole at the corner of Main and Partition streets, Saugerties, on Monday noon. The impact broke the electric street light globe attached to a bracket on the pole. After the crash which apparently did not do any serious damage to the car, the driver backed away from the pole and hurried away. His license number was obtained and phoned to the Kingston police in hopes of catching the offender.

Vince Coffey to Box Patsy Motto

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Albany, Aug. 11.—Vince Coffey, Kingston welterweight who put the downriver city on the pugilistic map several years back when he trounced Frankie Laureate at Troy is again on the threshold of fame, only instead of boxing Laureate again, Vince is meeting a new pugilistic star in Patsy Motto of Albany. Motto recently took the measure of Laureate and so the betting on the bout between Motto and Coffey is even Stephen.

Incidentally, the bout will be staged on Thursday night at Chadwick Park, Albany and the proceeds are to go to St. Rocco's Society for the St. Rocco's Past Fund. Interest in the bout is at fever heat throughout the Capital District, assuring a capacity crowd when the contestants enter the squared circle.

Coffey has been training diligently for the bout at Joe Jeanette's gym in Hoboken while Motto is training at Clement's gymnasium in Albany. Five supporting bouts will make up the rest of the card and according to all critics, it is the best lineup of local talent arranged in Albany in many years.

Young Terry of Holyoke, Mass., engages in combat with Joe Lamanna of Syracuse in the feature six rounder. Lamanna recently trounced Joe Sobbie at Troy and Don Davis at East Chicago. Then Harry Thorpe of Ulica, boxes Frankie Gerriek of Albany in another six rounder while Willie Klein of Albany and Young Coogan of Syracuse also are down for a six spot. Frankie Garcia of Ulica, a brother of Bushey Graham, battles Nick Carlini of Albany in a four rounder while another four round bout will open the show.

OLIVE BRIDGE.
Olive Bridge, Aug. 11.—At the Democratic caucus, held in the Third election district of the town of Olive, John A. Barringer, Grover C. Winchell and Horace Myers were elected delegates to attend the convention at the Kingston Opera House on August 12.

A number from this place attended the Sunday school picnic at Samsonville last Wednesday.

Asa Barringer is suffering from an injured knee. All hope for a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Justin Bell and daughter are spending some time at the home of her mother, Mrs. Mary Marshall.

Myron Myers and Daniel A. Steen are under the doctor's care at the present time.

Henry Sheldon has a number of city boarders.

New Orleans has obtained Pitcher Watson W. Clark, a southpaw, from the Cleveland Indians on option.

Ossining Team At Fair Grounds

The Ossining team comes here today for their first match with the Colonials in two seasons. They were here in 1922 when the locals won out 3 to 0 in a close match. This down-river outfit will have for their twirler Mickey Welch who wore a Colonial uniform two seasons ago. Mickey made an effort to land with the locals early in the season as a twirler but did not make it and will probably make the game today an opportunity to show the locals what he can do, and what they are missing by not signing him up.

Paul Kinney will be the likely nominee for the locals' mound work. Paul will have as good a chance to spoil Mickey's evil intent as any other twirler on the locals' staff. Tomorrow the locals will travel to Ossining to meet this club for a return match. Either Clyde Russell or Art Smith are strong probabilities for this twirling job on Wednesday.

Horse Racing At Rhinebeck

Will Be Feature of Dutchess County Fair August 31 to September 4—Stables From Poughkeepsie Track Being Reconstructed There.

Frank H. Cookingham of Rhinebeck, race secretary, announced today that $6,000 in purses will be distributed to horsemen at the Dutchess County Fair to be held at Rhinebeck August 31 to September 4.

The trotting events will comprise 2:12, 2:14, 2:17, and 2:22 classes. In the pacing there will be 2:10, 2:15, 2:18, 2:22 and 2:30 classes. There will be a special 2:30 trot and pace event for Dutchess county horses.

In the other events entries have been received of fast steppers from adjoining counties and states as well as from Dutchess. Interest in the fair race meet has increased greatly in recent years and the fast track at Rhinebeck is attracting entries of a large field of horses.

With the elimination of the track at Poughkeepsie, which is being converted into building lots, Rhinebeck is now the racing center in this section. Stables accommodating 48 horses have been removed from the Hudson River Driving Park at Poughkeepsie and are now being reconstructed at the Fairgrounds in Rhinebeck. These stables are expected to take care of the increased entries this year and will be completed before the fair opens.

The members of the racing committee are Harry Cotting of Rhinebeck, William Marshall of Salt Point, Wendell P. Booth of Poughkeepsie, Frank H. Cookingham of Rhinebeck is secretary.

Call Industrial Game in Fourth

One of the largest crowds of the season gathered at the Athletic Field Monday evening to witness the struggle between the Kingston Gas and Electric team and the West Shore nine—first division teams of the Industrial League.

The game was not completed, being called in the fast of the fourth inning, on account of darkness. The West Shore team was at bat in the last of the fourth and three men were on the bases with no outs. The Gas 13; West Shore 10.

Dispute over the correct score delayed the game and probably was the cause of the game being called by darkness. The Gas Company players were in high dudgeon, contending that four runs crossed the plate for their side in the third, the score book showing three.

In the disputed third, McAuliffe, the first batter for the Gas Company, was given a free pass to first and moved to second when May received another free trip. Whitaker smote one for a safe blow into centerfield, McAuliffe scoring and May taking third base. Whitaker then stole second. Shufeldt, next to the bat, hit to the pitcher and May scored, all being safe on the play. Whitaker was on third and Shufeldt on first. Shufeldt stole second. At this stage of the proceedings Leskie replaced McAuliffe in the box. Johnson, the first batter to face Leskie, went out Leskie to Coffey. Williams made the second out of the frame when he struck out. Kirchner hit into centerfield. Whitaker crossed the plate, Shufeldt came in from second, rounded third and made for home but did not cross the plate until after Kirchner was put out at second. Kirchner overran second base and was put out. The dispute arose over Shufeldt's alleged run. Shufeldt was entitled to home on the play as he crossed the plate before Kirchner was put out.

McAuliffe started for the West Shore team and Van Aken for the Gas Company. Both pitchers were replaced before the game was called.

Score by Innings:
K. G. & E. 3 2 3 5
West Shore 1 1 1 1
Four walks forced in one run.

New Golf Course To Open at Yale

By Telegraph to The Freeman. New Haven, Conn., Aug. 11.—Yale University's golf course, supposed to be one of the finest in the world, will be open to student players next October with a "grand opening" occurring next spring. Out of a tract of 700 acres, on the western edge of the city, the golf course has been constructed as a portion of the Ray Tomkins Memorial, given by Mrs. Tomkins to aid in the development of a magnificent playground and a program of sports that will include tobogganing, skiing, skating and trampolining. In the course 120 acres of land have been utilized and about 100 acres have been cleared of timber and rock or treated in some manner.

The course is said to be unique and without any close parallel and wholly unlike any course in America. The Mid-Ocean course, at Bermuda, and Glenageary, in Scotland, were built to take advantage of the wide and bold variations of contour as has the Yale course, but "these other two courses are in such different settings that any faithful comparison is impossible." In building the Yale course each of the 18 holes was given three separate tees, thus furnishing three courses—long, regular and short, the long course being planned for championship play. Yardage over the long course is 6,552 with par 71, over the regular course 6,107 with par 69, and over the short course 5,548, with par 69.

REFUSAL TO EAT MEAT CAUSED SWIMMER'S FAILURE.
By Telegraph to The Freeman. Cape Griz Nez, France, Aug. 11.—"You can't swim the channel on vegetables."

This was the verdict today of Jabez Wolfe, veteran trainer, on the failure of Miss Lillian Harrison of Buenos Aires in her fourth attempt to swim the channel.

"Miss Harrison's refusal to eat meat during her training undoubtedly lessened her resistance to the cold," the trainer told International News Service.

Although in her disappointment when taken from the water in a state of exhaustion, Miss Harrison said she was through with the difficult channel tides and storms, she said today she hoped to try it again next year.

"I am sure I would have succeeded if the water had not suddenly become unbearably cold," she said.

Miss Harrison was eight miles from Dover, opposite Dover Castle, when she narrowly missed drowning. The severely cold water taxed her strength and but for the aid of Isham Molmy, Egyptian swimmer, who is himself training for the trans-channel swim, she might have drowned.

When she called that she was going down, Molmy reached her just as she fainted, and brought her aboard the tug that was accompanying her.

The Argentine girl had endured rain, hail and a vicious thunder storm shortly after her start from Cape Griz Nez at 12:12 p. m. yesterday.

The Giants proved superior mud-ders over the Pirates and won the inaugural of the big series 2 to 1. Scott and Meadows engaging in a pitcher's duel.

After kicking the game away, the Indians tried to take it back in the ninth but Rutherford put on the brakes in time and the Senators won, 3 to 2. Genewich outpitched Milledale and Cubs, 5 to 0.

Coloring Hydrangeas
The color of the flowers of the shrubby hydrangeas is variable and seems to be dependent on the acidity or alkalinity of the soil. An abundance of lime produces pink in the flowers, while blue is produced by acid conditions which may be accompanied by the use of alum, rusty iron or iron filings. Two much blue will check the growth of the plants and cause a yellowing. Treatment for any effect needs to be begun a year before the result is desired.
